

Arumpo Bentonite Pty Ltd has developed its world class Bentonite deposit, the largest in Australia with indicated reserves exceeding 70 million tonnes.

The Arumpo deposit is unique because of its extremely high purity. The shallow depth of the resource allows easy mining with minimal disturbance to the environment.

The deposit is strategically located in the Murray basin close to large markets for engineering, environmental, agricultural, manufacturing and food processing applications.

The mine is situated in the south west corner of NSW, 95 km north east of Mildura, Victoria, a major regional centre and is ideally located between the major capital cities of Sydney, Melbourne and Adelaide.
